

Current Grantees

In July 2019, the St. Louis City Senior Fund issued grants to 24 organizations. Seventeen organizations received grant renewals for a second year of funding focused on fall prevention or economic security programs. Nine organizations received their first year of funding focused on social isolation or homemaker chore services.

These grants support programs and services for residents living in the City of St. Louis who are 60 years of age or older. Programs listed in this document are supported in part by the Senior Fund. Many organizations listed have additional programs for older adults; contact them or visit their websites for information

Fall Prevention Grants

For many people, an unexpected fall can result in a serious and costly injury. These grants aim to reduce fall risk and prevent falls by supporting home environment assessments, home modifications and repairs, medication reviews, and exercise and education programs. Our goal is to help residents in the City of St. Louis live safely in the home and community that best serves their needs and interests.

Social Isolation Grants

Isolation is more than being alone. It’s the result of feeling detached physically or psychologically, or being disconnected from support groups of family, friends and community which can lead to significantly poor health and wellbeing. These grants aim to prevent and reduce social isolation for individuals who have higher risks due to changes in physical or mental health, caregiving demands, mobility challenges, major life events such as loss or retirement, and other risk factors. Our goal is to help older adults maintain social connections and age in the home and community that best serves their needs and interests.
